The 7-Ingredients to a Credit Union

There are 7-ingredients that set credit unions apart from banks, strengthens the community and benefits you, too! Credit unions are unique. Created not for profit, but to serve their members.

Credit unions are open, understanding and there’s no discrimination. Every member is also an owner—and every member-owner gets a vote in the credit union. They believe that when members know better, they do better, so they provide education to help their members reach their goals. And, the more members use their credit union, the more there is to go around through better rates, lower fees and services that benefit the entire credit union. As a cooperative, credit unions work with other cooperatives because they share the same important values and work to better the community we live in.

Thank you for being a DoPack member!

To say thank you to our members, Dupaco will be serving FREE COOKIES at all locations on Thursday, October 19 to celebrate people helping people on International Credit Union Day! International Credit Union Day recognizes credit union members and workers for their commitment to helping others and their communities.
